SATURDAY NIGHT AT TAD'S

May 2nd - 6:30 p.m. - Tad's Place

The Meyerowitz Stories

A treat of a movie! It packs an emotional punch which is laugh out loud funny at times but sad at every turn that strikes a realistic tone in the presentation of a dysfunctional family. Well written, well directed and well performed. Starring Adam Sandler (yay New Hampshire!) and Dustin Hoffman.

2017, Rated TV-MA, runtime: 1:52

SUNDAY MATINEE AT TAD'S PLACE

May 3rd - 2 p.m.

The Summer Book

On a tranquil Finnish island, young Sophia comes into her own while exploring the wonders of the natural world at her family's seasonal home alongside her father and grandmother. Glenn Close gives an amazing performance as you've never seen her before. This adaptation of Tove Jansson's beloved novel is a delicate account of growing up and growing old, beautifully filmed on 16mm.

Close-up

Documentary-fiction hybrid, 1990, A. Kiarostami, Letterboxd rated 4.4, ranked #17 among top 250 films of all time. A minor crime becomes the doorway to a profound meditation on empathy, identity, artistic creation, and imagination. In Close Up, real people reenact the events that changed their lives, blurring the line between truth and performance. What begins as a simple fraud case becomes a moving exploration of identity, longing, and the power of cinema. Kiarostami turns a courtroom drama into something unexpectedly tender. Ordet

Spiritual drama, 1955, Carl Theodore Dryer, Letterboxed 4.4 Set in 1925-30 in a rural Danish community, Ordet explores faith, doubt, and the fragile bonds that hold a family together. Its calm surface hides deep emotional currents. The film builds a quiet power that stays with you long after it ends. Ordet is a story about love, conviction, and the limits of human understanding. The film grows more profound with every scene. This is one of cinema's most quietly astonishing experiences. (With subtitles, 126 minutes)
