

Important Notice:

Good Friday Afternoon,

I want to make sure I share some information regarding the Cyclospora in the news.

I have been in contact with our produce company (Saunder's Produce in Somersworth, NH) to discuss the outbreak, and we are safe!

The outbreak is from processed lettuce from Taylor Farms, located primarily in the Midwest region of the country.

We do not buy processed lettuce, and our produce company does not purchase produce from Taylor Farms. Nor does it come from the Midwest, our produce company buys from East Coast farms.

The outbreak has been linked to Taco Bell specifically, and they have altered their menu by removing suspect items which may have led to the outbreak. I suggest refraining from eating there until their outbreak is over.

Please feel free to reach out to me with any questions.

Thank you

Jonathan Merrill
