FICTION

Bug Hollow by Michelle Huneven

Set in California, this is a decades-spanning family saga featuring the messy but loving Samuelson clan trying to make sense of the world after the loss of their son Ellis. “The characters struggle with addiction, excruciating romances, and resounding losses as they continue to seek meaning and a way to be good” states the American Academy of Arts and Letters. The author captures the Samuelson clan with glorious precision and the deepest empathy as they fracture and rebuild again and again.

MYSTERY

Orcas Intrigue by Laura Gayle

Camille Tate has always run away…but vanishing whenever life gets too frightening has never solved anything. When a broken heart sends Cam to remote Orcas Island to try her hand at caretaking and writing a screenplay, she finds quiet beaches and cozy bookstores, plus a host of intriguing folks, including a rugged boat-builder, a glamorous neighbor, and a reassuring sheriff's deputy. But an escalating nest of mysteries and the haunting sense of being watched soon leave Cam wondering if she can believe her own perceptions. As intrigue turns to danger, she must decide whether there is anyone she can trust, or if it’s time for her to vanish yet again.

NON-FICTION

The International Network of the Radical Right: Democracy Under Attack in the U.S. and Europe by Thomas Greven

Across the US and Europe, right-wing populists, extremists, and radical conservatives forge powerful transnational networks in order to drive their ideologies across borders. Their goal is to undermine Western democracies and impose an authoritarian, anti-liberal, and hostile agenda. Thomas Greven demonstrates how these international networks systematically disseminate their ideas - such as the concepts of 'true people' and forced 'remigration' - into the mainstream or how they organize a global fight against 'the elites'. This is how conspiracy theories like the 'Great Replacement' are propagated across transatlantic and European networks
